Miss Charlotte Montmoor

CONFIDENTIAL

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE ORDER OF THE GOLDEN OAK

CONFIDENTIAL

CHARLOTTE RENEE MONTMOOR

To Rupert Eldren,
Head Librarian
Order of the Golden Oak

Pursuant to our conversation last month, and based on the recommendation of the Order, I have investigated the person of interest, Miss Charlotte Montmoor.

I have enclosed the dossier showing my personal observations as well as artifacts I collected during my investigation.

My conclusion is that Miss Montmoor should not be our primary target, but her connection to LENORA FINCH remains concerning. She doesn't appear to have significant knowledge of the fairy realms, but she may be hiding something, knowingly or not.

Servants were reluctant to speak with me and remained loyal to Miss Montmoor. Those who did speak, described her as charitable and kind. There were hints that she may read too much and express her opinions too freely. Only one spoke of his suspicions that LENORA FINCH may have too much influence on her.

CONCLUSION: No magical abilities detected

Note: I've recorded these events to the best of my ability. As a man of science, I attempted to stick to the facts, but it is often difficult to discern truth from fabrication.

While the magistrate suspects that AMBROSE HARROW is a person of interest in the disappearance of his wife, there is no conclusive evidence. There is also an indication that another suspect, LYRDC (last name unknown), may be involved. But again, evidence is lacking.

I will continue to search for more information on this subject. Although Mrs. Harrow is not our primary concern, she remains a missing link that will prove
